

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for providing an interactive interface, wherein a television viewer can create a personal television channel.

Such a system has the advantage of eliminating the need to peruse or surf television guides for the programs that an individual television viewer wants to watch. The personal channel contains all of the preferential programs selectable by the television viewer.